

AIMA is delighted to launch our new online education portal where you'll find easy access to a host of highly engaging, educational, and thought-provoking content.

We believe providing integrative medicine education to doctors and health care professionals is key to our mission of leading and facilitating the development of integrative medical care as being core to the health and wellbeing of individuals and society as a whole.

You can access a range of resources including content including:

- Interprofessional Communications Course
- online workshops
- webinars
- previous AIMA Conference presentations (see examples below).
